In addition to electricity-conservation measures implemented during the summer season, Shinsei Bank also introduced various other proactive initiatives to reduce electricity consumption in the fiscal year 2013. These include switching off lighting in communal spaces and using motion sensors to control lighting and air conditioning in conference and reception rooms at its head office. In the approach to the summer season when electricity demand increases, this year Shinsei will again implement the following measures.

- Shinsei has reduced ceiling lighting in workspaces in its head office by approximately 75%. Shinsei will implement this policy again this fiscal year during the period specified below.
- Shinsei will endeavor to reduce ceiling lighting in communal spaces in all other branches.

(2) Full-Scale Implementation of “Cool Biz”

Since October 2007, Shinsei has allowed employees to dress in business casual wear on working days, provided that this does not interfere with their duties, as part of our environmental protection measures. In addition to authorizing business casual wear, the Bank will make neckties non-compulsory for all employees, including those working at branches nationwide, in their internal and external activities throughout the period specified below.
